Interview with David Martins

BRENDAN LOY: There has been a lot of speculation as to who may have caused you to be pushed over and knocked into the brick wall. What do you know about this?

DAVID MARTINS: If wasn't a brick wall; it was the door at the art room. And I couldn't see. I was blindsighted. Actually, I was blindsighted.

BRENDAN: You were blindsighted. What does that mean?

DAVID: I was blindsighted.

BRENDAN: Oh.

DAVID: Someone pushed me from the side, and then...

BRENDAN: Pushed you from the side, and you slammed into...

DAVID:...and then I fell backwards and then, BOOM!

BRENDAN: And, you slammed into what?

DAVID: The art room door.

BRENDAN: You slammed into the door, not the brick wall?

DAVID: Not the brick wall.

BRENDAN: Okay. The common idea is that you slammed into the brick wall. Now, did you read this? (holding up "Tabloid Times" newspaper)

DAVID: Yes I did. I am shattered at the thought that you didn't [not] write this without my permission.

BRENDAN: How was I supposed to get your permission?

KATE HARBESON: I'm sorry to interrupt this, but, how can you discern any actual noises with this background [in the cafeteria]?

BRENDAN: I have no idea.

(Interview pauses for several seconds while Brendan talks to Kate Harbeson, Brian Newbold, and Billy Gray. Interview then continues.)

BRENDAN: After you got slammed into the wall, or slammed into the door, then what happened?

DAVID: Mr. Passerelli came out, and said 'What Happened?' and then I screamed 'Somebody get the nurse! Somebody get the nurse! Please! Please! Please!' And then Greg ran to the nurse, told Mrs. Santilli what happened—Greg O'Donnell—and, um, he came back rushing with the wheelchair...

BRENDAN: Right, Kevin saw that.

DAVID: ...and a hankie. I am not—I don't know if Nino DiBiase is linked to the conspiracy, or, I don't even know.

BRENDAN: So then, you went down the nurse's office, and then you went to the hospital?

DAVID: I did not go to the hospital. I went home, took a shower, then...

BRENDAN: Oh.

SEAN VIVIER: David, what's your middle initial?

DAVID: I don't have one.

SEAN: Oh. (impersonating mystery movie-type voice) Who cracked DM's head?

BRENDAN: So, that's... is that all?

DAVID: Yes, that's it.

BRENDAN: So, that's all for now here on BLL News interview with David Martins.

TOP TEN SIGNS THE QUIZ SHOW YOU'VE BEEN WATCHING IS FIXED

Letterman, Tuesday September 13, 1994

10. One guy keeps getting questions about what he had for lunch.
9. You hear the phrase, "Come on down, Mom!"
8. Answer the question about the capitol of Kentucky, Frankfurt. I mean, Champion.
7. You see Fabio run the board during Double Jeopardy.
6. Everytime a contestant presses the buzzer, they fall down dead!
5. Suddenly Alex Trebek doesn't give a damn whether anybody phrases their answers in the form of a question.
4. Bob Barker has been neutered. (I'm sorry, that's signs the game show host you're watching has been fixed.)
3. Whenever some of the other contestants start to answer, they're chomped in the ass by a vicious wolverine.
2. It's "Family Feud" and the Quyaes win.
1. "Ladies and Gentleman, please welcome our returning champion, Forrest Gump!"
